

WE OFFER A UNIQUE

BOUTIQUE STUDIO EXPERIENCE

We offer the same boutique studio experience found in Italy, the same focus on top-quality product and personal customer care.

Working in London and travelling in Europe we learned the real value of the boutique studio experience. We saw first-hand the truly creative, personal service they were able to offer their clients. In Italy, where boutique tile studios are the norm, they're able to give their customers so much more: better quality tiles, unique products, and bespoke consultation and design service. These small, intimate studios are free to handpick unique collections. We wanted to give our clients the same experience. Our way of working is personal. It's based upon our customers' needs. We're free to spend time on what matters: delivering creative design services, guiding customers through tile and surface choices and helping them create concepts and projects that will look stunning and last a lifetime.

It's not just our portfolio that is unique, it's our entire approach. We're passionate about design. So we spend time with you to help you select materials and develop and refine a concept that you'll be inspired by. Knowing our product inside out from a technical perspective allows us to choose products that will suit the exact specifications of your project. It's this expertise and market knowledge coupled with our attention to detail and commitment to perfection that makes us special. We're as comfortable in a quarry handpicking stone for your project, as we are in the studio. That's because we understand all sides of this business, from the purely aesthetic to the practical.
